

WAUSEON, OHIO

PHOTOS OF THE PAST

Pictures from the Fulton County Historical Museum

View of early North Fulton Street, Wauseon, Ohio about 1854

Wauseon in 1864

Wauseon's first hotel, the Estelle House, later the Clinton House as shown in the picture. First proprietors of the Estelle House were the Livermore Brothers and the hotel played a big part in early Wauseon affairs. It was the leading hotel in Fulton County for many years. Later it became the Sherman House passing into the ownership of the Cornell brothers. It was destroyed by a fire in 1872.

Early Street Fair in Wauseon (abt. 1897)

Looking South from Elm at the West side of North Fulton Street

Birds-eye view of early Wauseon, Ohio

Early View of Depot Street in Wauseon

The drugstore sits where the F&M Bank is now.

South Fulton Street, Wauseon, Ohio

View of the east side of street looking from the southwest side, near Chestnut Street

City Hospital built originally as Wauseon High School in 1868. It was opened as Hospital in 1903

First City Hospital, now the Historical Museum with Building donated to the Society in 1969 by Ruth Brown Campbell.

Detwiler Memorial Hospital, built about 1933 and was operated till March 1973 when the new Health Center was opened. It was then used as the County Nursing home till December 1997. It has been remodeled & is now Detwiler Manor County Offices.

The Fulton County Courtroom, Wauseon, Ohio

Fulton County Courthouse

Former Fulton County Jail

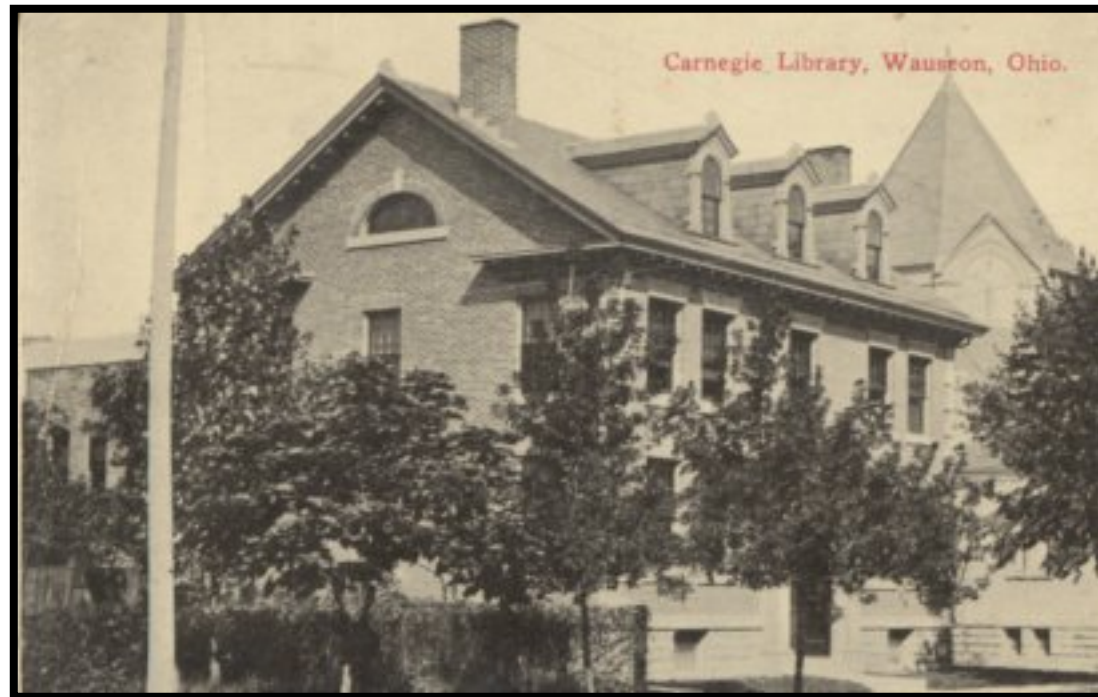

Wauseon Depot is now a Museum

Wauseon Memorial Auditorium

Wauseon Public Library/Carnegie Library

First High School in Wauseon

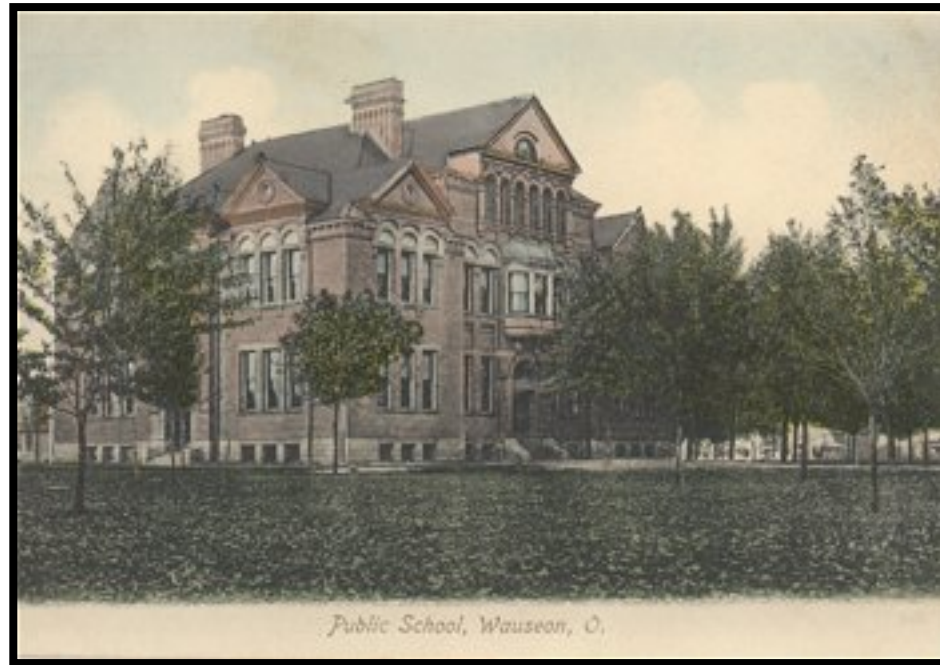

It was built in 1868 and it was condemned in 1897 as foundation was settling. The structure was remodeled with the upper story removed and in 1903 it was reopened as the First City Hospital for over 25 years. Then in 1933 Detwiler Memorial Hospital was opened. This building was then converted to four apartment units and was rental property till in 1969 when Ruth Brown Campbell donated the building to the Fulton County Historical Society

Wauseon Normal School

was located on East Elm Street

Wauseon Normal School

later became the elementary school

Old Wauseon Highschool

that burned, was located at corner of Elm and Clinton Streets

Former Wauseon Town Hall

was located on Depot Street

Hotel Commercial, Wauseon, OH

also was the Eager House either before or after and then the People's State Bank in the next photo.

Former People's State Bank

Corner of South Fulton and Commercial Street

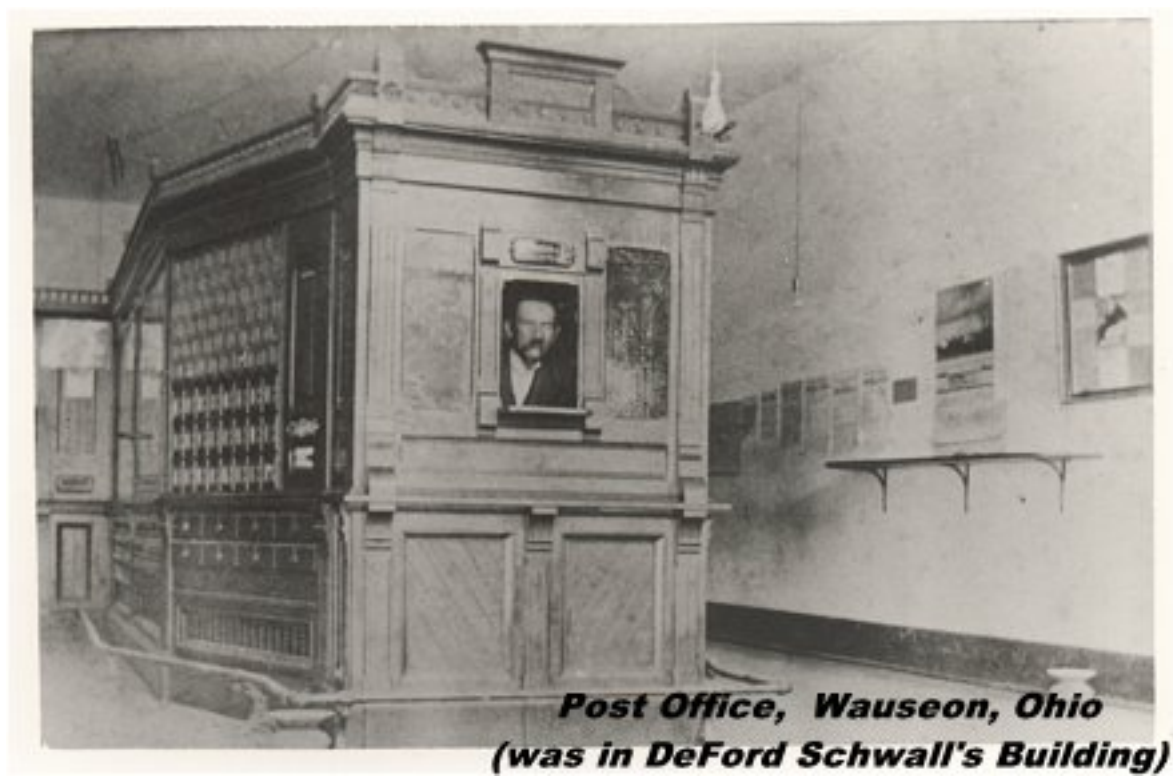

Teller's Booth

It was located in the Grieser Roos Insurance Building

Early Wauseon U. S. Post Office Window

Walter Brigham in the window

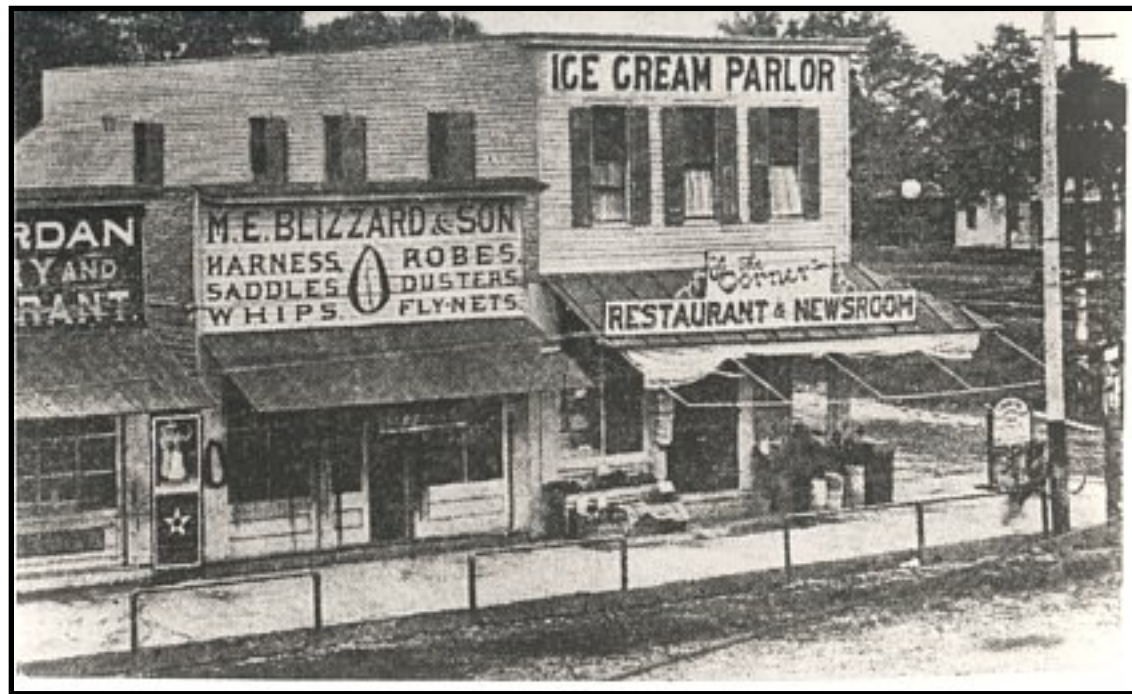

Wauseon Fire Departement in 1926

This photograph of the Wauseon Fire Department was taken in 1926. It appeared in the Republican last week with the offer of a year's subscription to the first person who could correctly identify all of them. Bill Gorsuch, veteran fireman, took the challenge and supplied the names. Standing, from left to right, Lawrence Clark, Walter Winzler, Amos Morningstar, Roy Goodwin, Art Gorsuch, George Lockman, L. B. Hann, John Rohrs, William Hoag, Ted Clark, William Losure, Ed Furney and Charlie Wagner.

In the front row, from left, Dr. Floyd Hartman, George Hallauer, Art Stratton, Phil Slat, Cy Overmeyer, George Gus Bowers, Lloyd Edgar, Al Gype and Archie Bundy. Of the 23 five are still alive. The photo was supplied by Art Gamble.

At Beech and North Fulton Street where the Arcade building stands today

Looking South on North Fulton Street from Elm Street

North Fulton Street

looking from the railroad tracks

South Fulton Street
looking from the Railroad tracks

North Fulton Street

east side of street looking from corner at Elm St.

Old Drug Store

was located on North Fulton St. at the corner of Depot St.
where the F&M Bank now stands.

The old Scotts Opera House

now a Furniture Store located on the east side of South Fulton St

North Fulton Street

West side of street where Shaw's Clothing store is now.

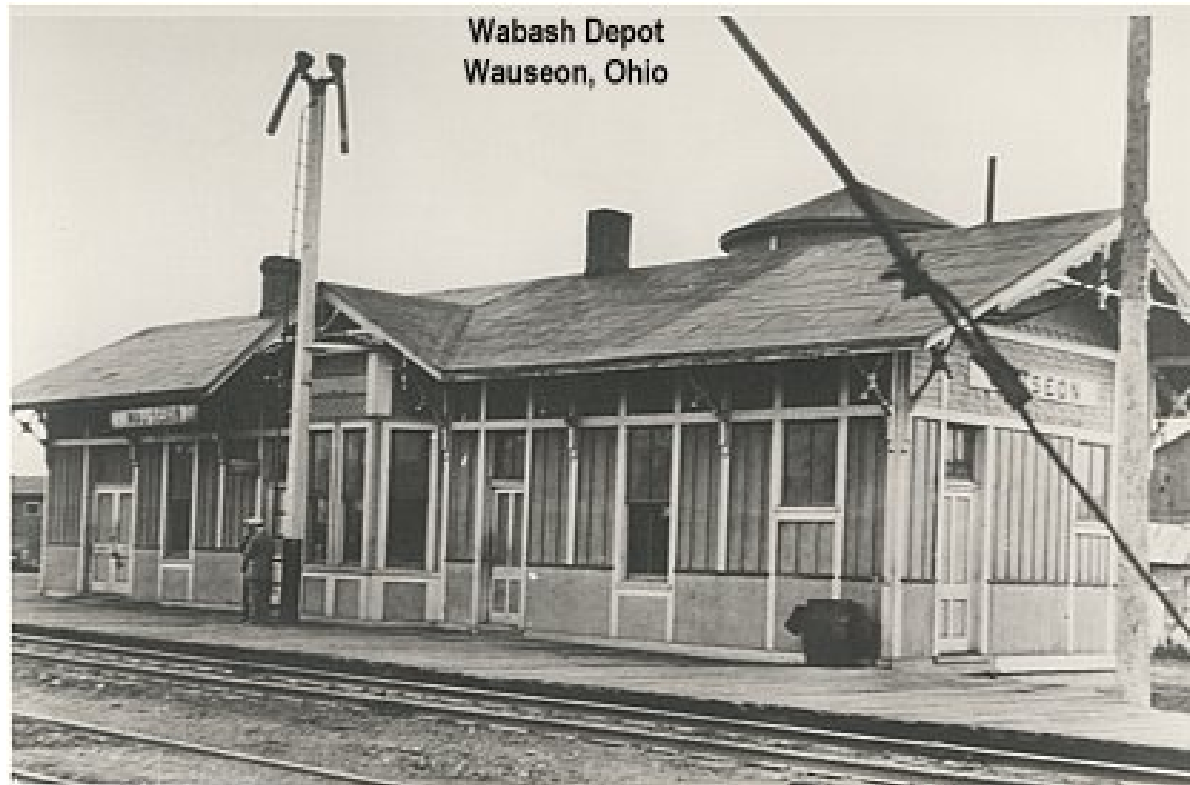

Railroad Stations

DT & I Depot
Wabash Depot
T & I Station

DT & I Depot

Wabash Depot

T & I Station

Pictures from the Fulton County Historical Museum